

MORE THAN BUSINESS TRAVELERS

While business travelers account for almost 50% of the hospitality industry's revenue, wireless solutions must also meet the needs of vacation travelers and time share residents, who desire immediate connectivity, Internet access, and convenient check-in and room services.

In addition, road warriors aren't just business travelers anymore. The growing popularity of RV'ing has defined a new "road warrior". These warriors want wireless connections along the road so that they can communicate with their family, pay bills, and surf the Internet, all from the comforts of their RV.

SECURED YET ACCESSIBLE

While the competitive advantages of a wireless solution are great, the implementation can be daunting. Security and access to the appropriate applications are critical. Distinctions must be made between guest and staff access without compromising security. Coverage must also be available in all locations – guest rooms, restaurants, conference rooms, and even poolside. Planning and network design are key.

UNPARALLELED GUEST EXPERIENCE

Because of the nature of their business, hotels, resorts, and RV parks must always look at ways to attract new guests and retain guest loyalty. A well-defined wireless solution can enhance the overall guest experience, while benefiting the hotel by streamlining administrative functions and reducing operating costs.

Converting an existing property to wireless is a fairly straightforward process that can result in a significant return on investment within a short timeframe.
